

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a limb protection system including an enclosure for enclosing the limb section. The invention also includes at least one flexible cuff which, in use, may be appropriately sized to stretch around and compress against parts of the user's limb extending into the limb protection system.